Confidence se darte hain?? Not in CloseUpKGP.

February 4, CUK: After so much of painstaking exercise, CloseUpKGP finally comes into existence. But for those who are not aware of the ongoing revolution, here's a brief. The idea came when a few bunch of guys and gals started experiencing a surprising pump in their confidence level, all of them happily enjoying their last stay in SF. Instantly they realized that its no time to ponder over the cause but to put the excess adrenaline to some good use. They could already see each other hailing some invisible spirit, recognized finally as Close-Up, and singing to the tunes of a smashing new advertisement broadcasted quite frequently over the television network. The vision was pretty clear after that. And once fun becomes the attitude, there is no doubt that confidence will come forth.

However, the members of the group realized that the confidence levels needed constant servicing in order to survive. The need for a formal recognition was immediately attended to by forming the CloseUpKGP group.

As it has been put in the preamble of the group, the CloseUp community is a gang of eccentric, non-concentric, geaky, freaky, hefty, nifty, confident people. Nothing seems to matter in there except for top-level confidence.

To state a few other facts, the group was founded on January 23, 2004 and was formally instantiated on the 31st of the same month. This newsletter is another confident move by the CloseUp community to popularize the ideas that flourish amongst the group. It has been a wise decision on their part as the group's activities has already been able to incite confidence in the minds of approaching enthusiasts. The group is currently concentrating its activities in Kgp only, but it is also all-open-hands to reach out to equally confident people outside its view. The group is planning to open their first chapter outside Kgp and by virtue of their confidence level, it is going to happen in the United States of America.

Amidst fun filled merry making, the community is also trying to give recognition to sub-level social services that always go unnoticed. Interested personnel may read more about their activities at www.geocities.com/closeupkgp.

Medal of Honor

The culprits were a few trucks with overloaded pebbles. After they made their way through the heavy bump in front of Chedies, the road was beetleweed (confidently using a noun as a verb) and became the bearer of skidding vehicles almost running into accidents. Our dear friend Mohan of Chedies proudly took the broomstick to his hands and swept away, not only the rocks and the stones, but also the imposing danger on the careless drivers. CloseUpKGP is proud to present Mohan the "Medal of Honor".

Welcome note

February 4, Rinku: Its my pleasure welcoming you all to this first edition of "Confidence". As the self-assumed editor of this newsletter, I would like to thank the entire CloseUp community for exhibiting such superior levels of confidence which finally boosted me to give a shape to this newsletter. I personally thank Dipu, Kaushik, Sangram, Shreya, Sonoo and Suran - all founders of the community - for lending me their expertise and showing me the way to a confident start. Keep the confidence high. Thank you.

In loving memory of...

February 4, CUK: Pinky. With that name comes a heavy memory for each one of us. Dedication was her only way of service, and she lived up to it till her last breath. It is a time of sorrow for us, but nonetheless, a time to learn too. CloseUpKGP respects confidence. But it shall never tolerate nor support any act of over-confidence. After all, nothing is worth a life, be that of a person, a dog, or a vehicle. Pinky taught this invaluable lesson to us and it now becomes our duty to abide by it from day one. No over-confidence.

Any statement made here is not intended to harm the feelings of any particular person or group. CloseUpKGP sincerely apologizes if it has unknowingly done so.
