

Chapter 7. Conclusion

It is my hope that eventually a system will be built which will be better than a human programmer at taking an unknown program and discovering what it does and how it can fail. Perhaps the ideas in this thesis will form a small piece of the foundation of that system.

"I would rather write programs to help me write programs than write programs."

NOTICE: This material may be protected by copyright law (Title 17 U.S. Code)

PROVING THAT COMPUTER PROGRAMS TERMINATE CLEANLY

BY

Richard Sites

STAN-CS-74-418

MAY 1974

COMPUTER SCIENCE DEPARTMENT
School of Humanities and Sciences
STANFORD UNIVERSITY

