Nottingham City Council wants to axe 366 jobs

Jobs at risk include qualified social workers, adult care workers, staff who support children with disabilities or people with Alzheimer's

Children homes and day care centres will close. Libraries and tourist centres like Nottingham Castle will close part of the week

UNISON cares about Nottingham. Help us fight these cuts

Place the poster (on the other side) in your local newsagent or shop
You MUST seek permission wherever you place it

Where are we now? UNISON continues to campaign against the Council's job cuts both in the media and in talks with the senior managers. The Council's leaders have been challenged to a public debate and at the time of writing we are awaiting to see if they will meet us without hiding behind the spin they've used so far.

As details of the proposals reach staff it's important that you let your UNISON reps know what the effects look like being. We are still in the official consultation period and we need as many members as possible to become involved in the struggle to save jobs and services. To keep updated, visit the Branch web site: www.nottinghamcityunison.org.uk
