The Connection Between
Media Producers and Consumers

Producers... Consumers...

are companies, organizations or people that create products, services and messages. Through different methods, media producers spread a message with the intent to sell, persuade or inform.

are people that receive a message, buy a product or service, and acquire information through many types of mediums.

The Relationship in Action

- #1 Send message, product or service
- #2 Receive message, buy product or service
- #3 Share message, review product or service
- #4 Repeat

Interactivity

When a message is sent or produced/created it sent by media producers through different mediums, the consumer receives or consumes and will then share the message or then brought on the production/creation. The first step when the consumer becomes the producer by sharing and reviewing. The consumer produces the message in their own way when they share and their reviews have the potential to change the message, product or service.
